

2019 MAJOR – Chinese-English Translation and Interpreting

(Qualifying Major for Bachelor of Arts)

Students completing a major in Chinese-English Translation and Interpreting develop proficiency in translating and interpreting between English and Chinese across a range of modes of texts. They gain an understanding of the society and culture of the countries where English and Chinese are spoken. Students learn about cultural differences, analyse languages in use based on linguistic aspects and culture, and apply skills in translation, interpreting and cross-cultural communication. The Chinese-English Translation and Interpreting major has a distinctive cross-cultural approach and includes opportunities for innovative modes of learning including online delivery and on-spot practice.

The table below is a suggested first session for students beginning in Session 2, 2019. Please make your selection of units after reviewing the requirements of your award in the 2019 Handbook:

Suggested First Session

Session 2, 2019

Unit Code	Unit Name
CHN253 * or ACSH100	Chinese-English Translation I Academic Communication in Social Sciences and Humanities
INTS102	China in World History
LING111	Language: Its Structure and Use
Elective	Choose an elective unit

- You must also meet the general requirements for the degree for which you will qualify.
- It may be possible to satisfy the requirements of your degree by taking a different selection of units in your first session from those suggested above.
- * The translation and interpreting units are for Chinese background speakers or students who have passed HSK 6 or at equal level.

Only students with previous knowledge of the language will be able to commence their language major in Session 2, and may be able to begin this language at Intermediate level, and must seek advice from their academic advisor prior to enrolment. All other students should commence their language units in Session 1, 2020.

- Consider what units you will want to study in second and third year. Prerequisite requirements for those units must be completed prior to enrolment in the higher-level unit.
- You must select a Professional and Community Engagement (PACE) unit as part of the elective component of your degree. It is important to plan ahead for this requirement and allocate elective space for your chosen PACE unit. A list of eligible units is available at www.handbook.mq.edu.au/2019/Units/PACE.
