

2019 MAJOR – Ancient History - Greece, Rome and Late Antiquity

(Qualifying Major for Bachelor of Archaeology)

This major offers the comprehensive study of the history, society, religions, material culture and languages of ancient Greece, Rome, and Late Antiquity. A critical interdisciplinary approach integrates ancient history subjects with the disciplines of archaeology, ancient languages, art history, epigraphy, papyrology and numismatics to provide the knowledge and skills required for subsequent learning and research at postgraduate level. The structure of the major is flexible to allow students to shape the major and tailor their studies to suit their personal interests. Students may enrol in the program in internal or external modes.

The table below is a suggested first session for students beginning in Session 2, 2019. Please make your selection of units after reviewing the requirements of your award in the 2019 Handbook:

- You must also meet the general requirements for the degree for which you will qualify.
- It may be possible to satisfy the requirements of your degree by taking a different selection of units in your first session from those suggested above.
- Consider what units you will want to study in second and third year. Prerequisite requirements for those units must be completed prior to enrolment in the higher-level unit.
- You must select a Professional and Community Engagement (PACE) unit as part of the elective component of your degree. It is important to plan ahead for this requirement and allocate elective space for your chosen PACE unit. A list of eligible units is available at www.handbook.mq.edu.au/2019/Units/PACE.
- For a double major complete required units for both majors where possible in the first year. If considering a double major consult the criteria found at www.handbook.mq.edu.au/2019/Majors.
- You can receive specific program advice from the faculty at any stage in your degree by lodging a "Program Advice" enquiry via <http://ask.mq.edu.au>.
