

2018 MAJOR – Modern History

(Qualifying Major for Bachelor of Business Administration with the degree of Bachelor of Arts)

Studying modern history gives students a rich perspective on the evolution of today's complex world, by considering continuity, change, contingency and context. Using a wide range of sources and methods historians can provide a perspective on change over time that can inform current decision-making and policy contexts. As well as being the home of 'Big History', Modern History offers diverse programs of study, with particular strengths in Australian, World and European history. The Modern History major develops important transferable skills in critical and analytical thinking, communication, cultural awareness, problem-solving, social engagement and sound judgement, for a range of career opportunities in the fields of diplomacy and foreign affairs, journalism, travel and tourism, heritage and cultural agencies, administration, research and education. History units also complement most other disciplines, especially politics, law, international studies, education and the social sciences.

The table below is a suggested first year program guide to support your enrolment. Please make your selection of units after reviewing the requirements of your award in the 2018 Handbook:
