

2019 Bachelor of Business Administration

This broadly based degree includes study in the key business areas of marketing, management, accounting, finance, economics, human resources and computing. It also develops skills in strategic management and negotiation, preparing you to fill roles in many parts of an organisation. Key features: experience subjects similar to those in a Masters of Business Administration (MBA) at an introductory level, develop a skill set suitable for a wide range of prospective careers within national and multinational organisations, flexibility of subject choice, and can be combined in our double degree programs to focus on areas such as accounting, organisational psychology or marketing.

The table below is a suggested first session for students beginning in Session 2, 2019. Please make your selection of units after reviewing the requirements of your award in the 2019 Handbook:
