

2019 MAJOR – Economics

(Qualifying Major for Bachelor of Commerce with the degree of Bachelor of Arts - Psychology)

This four-year program provides a joint qualification in commerce and psychology. The program lets you gain a comprehensive understanding of business functions, strategy and skills whilst equipping you with knowledge of a wide range of fundamental psychological concepts which will help you understand how people think, act and feel, and be able to apply these concepts across a range of business areas.

Economists understand complicated economic and social processes and set policies that have a major effect on society. By focusing on supply and demand networks, and on how choices are made to ensure scarce resources are allocated efficiently, a major in economics provides the skills to critically analyse decision-making by individuals, business, government and global organisations.

Students wishing to progress with psychology training can transfer from this degree to the Bachelor of Commerce with the degree of Bachelor of Psychology (Honours) upon meeting entry requirements.

The table below is a suggested first session for students beginning in Session 2, 2019. Please make your selection of units after reviewing the requirements of your award in the 2019 Handbook:
