

2018 Bachelor of International Studies

Students completing a Bachelor of International Studies develop proficiency in their target language across a range of modes of communication. They gain an understanding of the society and culture of the countries where their target language is spoken. Students debate concepts of culture, analyse the relationship between language and culture, and apply skills in cross-cultural communication both inside and outside the classroom. They discover histories of global mobility and processes of nation formation, and reflect on their own experiences of mobility and belonging. The Bachelor of International Studies has a distinctive cross-cultural approach and a compulsory in-country study component, as well as the opportunity to complete an internship.

The table below is a suggested first year program guide to support your enrolment. Please make your selection of units after reviewing the requirements of your award in the 2018 Handbook:
