

2017 MAJOR – Language and Professional Communication

(Qualifying Major for Bachelor of Psychology (Honours) with the degree of Bachelor of Human Sciences)

Professional communication theory and practice has long been taught within the broad field of business communication. However, over the past few decades there has been a growing awareness of the need to develop strong professional communication skills within health, community and social service providers, who need finely tuned strategies for communicating not only with their workplace colleagues but also with an increasingly diverse range of clients given the multicultural and multilingual aspects of modern society. This major in Language and Professional Communication will provide graduates with a good working knowledge of various social, cultural and pragmatic aspects of language use that are recognised as key elements in developing and maintaining successful professional communication strategies that will complement the Psychology component of the double degree.

The table below is a suggested first session for students beginning in Session 2, 2017. Please make your selection of units after reviewing the requirements of your award in the 2017 Handbook:
