

2018 Bachelor of Security Studies with the degree of Bachelor of Laws

This program combines Macquarie's Security Studies and Law degrees. The Bachelor of Security Studies will develop awareness and comprehension of traditional and non-traditional security issues, examined from national and international perspectives. The program presents a contemporary approach to security studies, encompassing risk management strategies, emergency response, national resilience, law enforcement and the use of military force. A hallmark of the Macquarie Law Degree is a commitment to the interdisciplinary study of law, which fosters a sound understanding of legal doctrine as well as an awareness of the role of law in society and a developed sense of social responsibility.

The table below is a suggested first year program guide to support your enrolment. Please make your selection of units after reviewing the requirements of your award in the 2018 Handbook:

- You must also meet the general requirements for the degree for which you will qualify.
- It may be possible to satisfy the requirements of your degree by taking a different selection of units in your first year from those suggested above.
- It is recommended that you consider undertaking studies in a language offered by the Department of International Studies. Completing 12cp from the units listed in a language major may assist in later studies or career prospects. If uncertain about which language to study, or why, we recommend you contact an academic advisor for Security Studies and/or International Studies.
- Consider what units you will want to study in second and third year. Prerequisite requirements for those units must be completed prior to enrolment in the higher-level unit.
- All students must complete one People unit and one Planet unit. Criteria and available units can be viewed at www.handbook.mq.edu.au/2018/Units/Planet and www.handbook.mq.edu.au/2018/Units/People.
